Indulge in comfort and travel in style with Gingerlily's new Green and Ivory striped silk travel set. It features an eye mask, neck pillow and Travel Pillow, all made exclusively from pure long strand mulberry silk.

The eye mask features an evaporated foam, wide and generous to allow the mask to sit comfortably, whilst the neck pillow brings support and relaxation to the neck and shoulders, with a memory foam pillow enclosed within pure silk and a handy clip to easily attach to your luggage. The silk travel pillow, covered in a removable silk case, is the perfect travel accessory, not only for the journey but also to bring the luxury of silk and a blissful night's sleep at your end destination. Each item within the range is sold individually or can be purchased as a set - presented in a beautiful, matching silk travelling wash bag.

Hypoallergenic and antimicrobial, silk duvets and pillows naturally repel dust mites, promoting a more hygienic sleeping environment.

Silk is also a natural heat conductor, adjusting to your body temperature as you sleep. Its breathability helps wick away excess moisture, preventing the dampness often experienced with other fabrics. This makes silk suitable for all seasons, offering a cool surface during warmer months and cosy warmth in colder weather. Additionally, silk contains proteins that help maintain soft skin and smooth hair while you sleep. Its gentle texture is particularly beneficial for those with skin conditions like eczema or psoriasis, as it avoids the irritation that can be caused by rougher fabrics such as cotton or wool.

For couples with different bedding preferences, the Gingerily 'half and half duvet' provides a smart solution. With one side tailored for summer and the other for year-round use, it allows partners to enjoy customised comfort without compromising on quality. Choosing silk bedding and accessories is not just about indulging in luxury; it's an investment in your well-being. Its ability to regulate temperature, reduce allergens, and support healthy skin makes silk an ideal material for restful, rejuvenating sleep.

Trim

TRIUMPH

Decorative trims, known as passementerie, are making a significant return to today's design landscape. This craft, deeply rooted in history, has been used for centuries to embellish various items, ranging from clothing to home décor.

Originating from ancient cultures, these ornamental details have travelled through time, gaining popularity in various eras, particularly during the Renaissance and the 18th and 19th centuries.

In the current wave of design trends, passementerie is celebrated for its ability to transform everyday items into something special. These trims can add richness and a sense of grandeur to any interior. By incorporating elements like fringes and tassels, designers can bring depth and a luxurious touch to curtains, cushions, and more.

This renewed interest in intricate detailing reflects a broader movement towards embracing traditional craftsmanship in modern design. These trims can also be matched with other decor items like candle holders and glasses to create a cohesive and lively space. The contrast or harmony they bring in colour and texture can enhance the overall look, making the space feel complete and thoughtfully designed.

As more people seek unique and personalised touches in their spaces, the use of trims offers a perfect solution to create something truly distinctive.
